"Physiotherapy is the primary health care profession that promotes wellness, mobility, and independent function. Physiotherapists have advanced understanding of how the body moves, what keeps it from moving well, and how to restore mobility." - The Canadian Physiotherapy Association

The art is in finding the root cause.

Too often, clinics focus on the symptom rather than the cause. But tennis elbow can start in your neck and your leg pain may actually be coming from your back. By finding and treating the cause of your pain we'll help you get better faster - and give you long-term solutions to stay that way.

How does physiotherapy work?

Most people feel better when they really understand their condition. That's why we start with a thorough history of your injury, illness, or disability. Then you'll go through a comprehensive physical evaluation and start treatment right at your first visit.

Treatment is designed to give you strategies to get rid of your symptoms quickly and easily. Depending on your specific issue, treatment may include a simple exercise program, manual hands-on therapy, the use of other techniques, and education about your injury.

Everyone is unique, which is why we'll reassess your condition regularly and making any needed changes to your treatment plan. When you've finished with us you'll have what you need to stay healthy and prevent future re-injury.
